

“The CBA is the principal UK-wide non-governmental organisation that promotes knowledge, appreciation and care of the historic environment for the benefit of present and future generations.”

“The scope of the CBA’s work is large, but decisively channeled through the five core functional areas described above: research, conservation, education, information, and publication. The small, dedicated permanent staff at the York headquarters keep abreast of the CBA's responsibilities with the voluntary support of the Council's Officers and Board, members of committees, and the active enthusiasm of the Regions.”
