

Education Writers Association (US)

ARCHIVES

“The Education Writers Association is dedicated to improving the quality and quantity of education coverage to create a better-informed society. As the national professional organization of members of the media who specialize in education, EWA has worked for more than 60 years to help journalists get the story right. Today, EWA has more than 2,500 members benefiting from its high-quality training, information, and customized support.”

EWA has two types of members. Journalist members and Advocate members

From www.ewa.org/site/PageServer?pagename=abt, 11 September 2012