Hitotsubashi University (JP)

"Hitotsubashi University is a publicly funded university in Tokyo that specializes in the social sciences. For 130 years Hitotsubashi graduates have played leading roles in Japanese business, hence the university's motto "captains of industry." Today, our former students are also prominent in finance, government, politics and the media. The quality of our research has been recognized internationally, and Hitotsubashi scholars maintain strong ties to industry and government." Hitotsubashi is an excellent base for visiting researchers, offering a well-stocked library, a beautiful campus, and a friendly atmosphere."

From www.hit-u.ac.jp/guide/index-e.html, 25 May 2007