We would like your permission to reproduce the April 2003 research report "Following the Mobile Student: Can We Develop the Capacity for a Comprehensive Database to Assess Student Progression?" for the JA-SIG software development community. The document would be reproduced from the original PDF format bookmarked with thumbnail images and a full-text index.

This would distributed both as a document available in the research collection on the Website of several universities in the US and UK, and on DVD distributed to JA-SIG software developers.

This document is now especially relevant since several of the standards bodies--AACRAO, SIIA's SIF and IMS Global for example--are developing specifications for student data exchanges.

Thank you.
