Introduction

- ▶ Why Sakai?
- ▶ Define Library Resources
- ▶ Use of Tools and Best Practices
- ▶ Indicators of Success
- ▶ Next Steps

Why Sakai?

- ▶ Librarians have limited access to the website
- ▶ Website is complex and difficult to navigate with a poor search feature
- ▶ Users are already in Sakai for course work
- ▶ Easy to use

Defining Library Resources

- ▶ Web links
- ▶ Documents
- ▶ Knowledge
- ▶ Librarians

Home

- ▶ Previews announcements, calendar, discussion
- ▶ Option for a text description
- ▶ Or, point description to a customized web page
  - Create a specialized and focused welcome to the site and contents
  - Use a Meebo widget for chat
    - Meebo allows users to chat with librarians even when they are not logged into Sakai

Web Content Tool

- ▶ Links to the OPAC, databases, RefWorks, library website, school website, student portal, &c
  - Links from the tool menu bar refresh if the page reloads, so pages that require constant or ongoing manipulation should open in a new window
  - Lots of links makes the page really long – prioritize links and place the rest in Resources

RefWorks Tutorial

Home > Refworks 101

WHAT IS REFWORKS?

RefWorks is your personal database for managing your bibliographic citations, linking you to online journal articles, and producing bibliographies for your papers. RefWorks 'talks' to many of our databases enabling you to browse the literature indexes and simply import citations directly into RefWorks with ease.

Click here to open RefWorks in a new window

<http://ezproxy.libraries.claremont.edu/login?url=https://www.refworks.com/refworks>

GETTING STARTED

First, log into RefWorks from the Libraries' webpage

1. <http://libraries.claremont.edu>
2. "Quick Links"
3. "RefWorks"

If you haven't yet created an account, you will need to do so by clicking "Sign up for an Individual Account" at the RefWorks page. You can use any email address you prefer.

Indicators of Success

- ▶ 185 students and faculty joined since site went public in Fall '07
- ▶ Science library site hit the list of most highly visited sites several weeks of the fall semester
- ▶ Faculty adding librarians to course sites
- ▶ Site stats indicate logins, events, and resources accessed

Next Steps

- ▶ More librarian involvement
  - More special project sites – subject related, concept related, or objective related
- ▶ Course integrated instruction
  - More implementation of the 3 Step Library Instruction Assignment
- ▶ Cease ERES electronic reserves server and formally migrate all course reserves into Sakai's Resources tool
