

Icodeon Ltd.

“Icodeon creates the software required for Internet based learning and knowledge management systems and was founded in the "Silicon Fen" around the University of Cambridge in 2004.

“Taking advantage of advances in global agreements for educational technology standardization, Icodeon helps organizations extend and improve the features of their existing e-learning systems.

“As global agreement on education technology standards advances, Icodeon will be exploring how education technology adds value to International and Multicultural Education.”
